The 2005 Tourists!

In Memory 94 we heard about possibly the worst hole of golf ever played on the tour. However, there is in fact another contender, which came on BDT 2005 and the common denominator is Big Buzz who played in both! Buzz himself takes up the reins telling the story in his own words:

BUZZ

"When my mind wanders back to the 'dark tour' of Vilamoura I immediately think of it being the place where bars didn't shut till 6 - 7 am. This was only ever going to take its toll on the tourists, most notably me being the defending champion and 2005 Shitzu!

Big Buzz on the Tee

Several off course flash-backs spring to mind including Thunderpants wandering back after an evening's activities looking dazed with only his jeans on with white Calvins in hand (still not sure what happened) and the horrified look on the local vet's face when Marshy/Ravo asked what was the best type of beer for a dog and then proceeded to tell her that Big Dogs love beer and whether she had any special dog bowls for a Big Dog to drink it beer out of. (They kept this running for a good 5 to 10 minutes if I recall correctly).

After Night I came the first round on the Old Course and a match between myself and Barnabus v Robbo and Picko. The golf I was producing typified my eventual Shitzu status. I was hitting the ball reasonably solidly but direction was a big issue.

I found myself about half way round struggling to get into double figures and in danger of my lad getting sunstroke! I pitched up on the 7th green (lad still out) to see Barnabus sink the final putt to half the hole. Relief came as the final putt dropped so I could give the old man a bit of respite.

Walking onto the next tee, the sight of a nice wide fairway was most welcome. As I had been catching the ball well I thought "I'll lead off and aim up the left hand side of the fairway and even if I do a 'Fore Right' and slice it should be ok."

Standing on the tee addressing my ball following my 5th practice swing I hovered over my ball for what seemed to be an eternity! Every eventuality went through my mind. Eventually I struck it, the Pro V1 took off like an exocet missile up the left hand side of the fairway although a little low. It passed the ladies tee which was about 20 yards ahead.

The relief was short lived when my ball struck what can only be described as the most sturdy twig I have ever come across. Needless to say my ball ricocheted 50 yards back towards me just behind the ladies' tee. This, to say the least, amused my team mate and fellow competitors. It must have been several minutes before Barnabus could compose himself to play his shot.

Whilst I would not wish my team mate any ill fortune, when he proceeded to nob his ball about 10 yards I did have a little giggle to myself. I also recall some remark from Dumbo about both 'Bloodhounds' having to get their wieners out and if I wasn't careful mine would match the colour of my top!

What was a giggle soon turned into a laughter when Fore Right topped his to about 15 yards and unabated right laughter when Dumbo stuffed his to about 10 yards.

Picture this, all four players from a four ball with c*cks out walking down the fairway. When Red Love, Chaaaaaaaarrrrrllles, Pubehead and Quick Crafty were walking up the 7th they were looking for 4 balls and found 8! Most amusing.”
