BDT 2009 · Vale do Lobo · Featuring Little & Boysie

Written for the 2026 countdown to BDT 2026 in Scottsdale

In 2009 we headed to Vale do Lobo, which we affectionately renamed "Vale do Lobes" in honour of Robbo's sizeable lugs. The OC that year proved to be one of the most aggressive ones; nicknames were very pointed ("Scrooge" was a very harsh one for Boggy and Ash took particular exception to being named "Rent Boy"!) and the drinking fines were administered relentlessly and without sympathy. Oli G and Marshy were both fast asleep after 90 minutes and the Finemaster, fully robed in his Judge outfit, completely lost control of proceedings towards the end of the ceremony amidst unprecedented levels of grumbling and bickering!

Punishment for Little.

Ciaran watched all of this unfold with much amusement, since he had announced that in preparation for the impending London Marathon he would not be drinking for the tour. Back then he was the first Dog to abstain and so he was stone cold sober whilst the rest of us were anything but.

However, that smile was soon to be wiped from his face when he discovered that he would be wearing an outfit for the evening. The 118 118 adverts were all over the telly at the time and, as a tribute to Little's running prowess, Boysie had purchased a white running vest. Brian had employed his previously unheralded sewing skills, cutting out the numbers from some old black socks and stitching them onto the vest. This was presented to Little along with a lovely pair of running shorts and the outfit was almost complete. Robbo added the finishing touch by drawing a moustache on Little, which Little was concerned was more Adolf Hitler than David Bedford!

▶ Watch: I don't want to look like Adolf Hitler!

Little tolerated this in decent spirits for the most of the evening and, after some debate / moaning, we were kind enough not to force him to wear it outside of the hotel; he had also been docked three shots off his handicap as his sobriety was deemed an unfair advantage, so he no doubt went to bed that first night believing that his fines for the tour were now out of the way. Error!

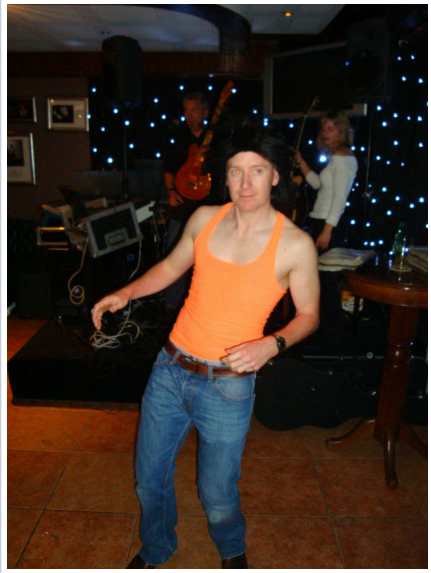

The BDT 2009 OC

Heading into the second night out, Little was in the hotel reception looking fresh and ready to hit the bars of Vilamoura, fully equipped with the standard LBS (Little Black Shirt), LB (the always-worn Little Belt) and ready for patter and action. However, the Monkey and his co-conspirators had other ideas and gleefully presented Little with a bright, tight, orange ladies vest-top to wear along with a lovely scouser wig. A nice touch which Little really appreciated.

The photos tell their own story and suffice to say it would be a long time before anyone declared they were doing a dry tour again!
